Satellites

Geostationary communications satellites provide video, audio and data channels to broadcasters, cablecasters, telephone companies, business and government users, utilizing transponders to receive signals and relay them back to earth. These satellites offer users an economical method of transmitting signals great distances and to many places at once. Currently there are twenty-two satellites used by North American owners and operators:

RCA American Communications. 201 Centennial Ave., Piscataway, N.J. 08854. (201) 885-4028. Andrew F. Inglis, pres; John Soning, VP govt comm; John Christopher, VP tech opns; Harold W. Rice, VP video & audio svcs; Jack Underwood, VP commercial comm svcs; Carl J. Cangelosi, gen counsel; Donald E. Quinn, VP Alascom svcs; John H. Williamson, dir pub affs. Video & Audio Sales; 1133 Avenue of the Americas, New York 10017. (212) 248-2070. There are presently seven Satcom satellites being used by the broadcast networks, cable industry, private lines and services to Alaska.

Western Union Telegraph Co. One Lake St., Upper Saddle River, N.J. 07458. (201) 825-5000. Western Union's 5 Westar satellites are divided between cable and broadcasters Westar I and II carrying broadcast transmissions; the other three satellites are primarily used by cable programers.

AT&T Communications. Rm 2A100, Bedminister, N.J. 07921. (201) 234-3000. W.B. Suski, svc mgr-prog svcs, (201) 221-7364; A.J. DeBenedictis, sat audio & TV svc mgr, (201) 234-7547; J.P. Kiely, svc mgr-planning, (201) 234-7545. Broadcast Services Center: 32 Avenue of the Americas, New York 10013. (212) 334-3501. AT&T leases all the transponders on Comsat General's Comstar satellites. There are four satellites used primarily for telephone communication.

Satellite Business Systems. 8283 Greensboro Dr., McLean, Va. 22102. (703) 442-5577. Robert C. Hall, pres; Larry Weekly, pub affrs dir. There are 3 satellites operated by SBS providing business communications including voice and data transmissions, teleconferencing and computer interconnections, residential and small business long distance telephone services.

Telesat Canada. 333 River Rd., Ottawa, Canada K1L 8B9. (613) 746-5920. Eldon D. Thompson, pres & CEO; R.M. Lester, VP bus dev; Ronald Turta, VP fin & treas. There are five operational ANIK satellites providing Canada with cable and broadcast programing as well as telecommunications services.

AT&T Long Lines. Room 2A100, Bedminster, N.J. 07921. W.B. Suski, svc mgr, prog svcs: (201) 221-7364; A.J. DeBenedictis, satellite, audio & TV svc mgr: (201) 234-7547; J.P. Kiely, svc mgr, planning: (201) 234-7545.

AT&T provides regular telephone and government private line services, using the Comstar satellites it leases from Comsat General Corp. FCC rules confining the company to these services were lifted on July 23, 1979, and AT&T is now free to offer broadcast services on the Comstars, pending FCC approval.

CBS Inc. Broadcast Group, 51 W 52d St., New York 10019. (212) 975-4321.

Holds construction permit for DBS satellite.

Communications Satellite Corporation (Comsat). 950 L'Enfant Plaza, S.W., Washington 20024. (202) 863-6000. Joseph V. Charyk, chmn & CEO; Irving Goldstein, pres; John L. McLucas, pres, Comsat World Systems Division; William H. Berman, sr VP & gen counsel; John V. Harrington, sr VP, research & development; Carl J. Reber, sr VP; Robert W. Comsat is primarily engaged in providing satellite-based communications services and products. There are six components to the Corporation's business:

Rate-regulated Satellite Services includes all activities the Corporation undertakes to carry out its responsibilities under the Communications Satellite Act of 1962, as amended.

Comsat, as U.S. participant in the International Telecommunications Satellite Organization (Intelsat) provides satellite services for communications principally between the United States and foreign points. It provides these services through the Intelsat satellites and eight U.S. earth stations.

Comsat is the U.S. representative to the International Maritime Satellite Organization (Inmarsat) which is establishing an internationally owned and operated global satellite system for maritime communications.

Non-Jurisdictional Satellite Systems Services includes activities the Corporation pursues through other satellite systems whether or not these activities are regulated by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

Through its subsidiary, Comsat General Corporation, the Corporation leases the capacity of its Comstar satellites to AT&T for domestic communications, furnishes maritime communications services to the U.S. Navy, the British Royal Navy and Inmarsat through the Marisat system and provides technical services for satellite systems other than Intelsat and Inmarsat.

Through its Telecommunications Equipment segment, Comsat designs, manufactures and markets telecommunications equipment: shipboard terminals, echo cancellers and time-division multiple-access equipment; low-noise and medium power, solid-state microwave amplifiers and related systems for the defense, electronics and commercial satellite communications industries.

Through Comsat's Information Services segment, its subsidiary Compact Software develops and markets computer-aided engineering tools for the microwave electronics industry. Environmental Research & Technology provides environmental consulting, planning, monitoring and computer-based information services to industry and government.

Through Direct Broadcast Satellite Services, Comsat's subsidiary Satellite Television Corporation is preparing to offer multiple channels of pay-TV programing. This entertainment and information service will be beamed directly from satellites to small antennas at the homes of subscribers. Business is scheduled to begin in the fall of 1984, initially serving residents in the northeastern United States.

Through the Satellite Business Systems partnership, satellite-based services are provided. These include long-distance telephone services; private communications networks, including international extensions, for large organizations.

GTE Satellite Corporation owns and operates three major earth stations in a domestic communications satellite system which is operated jointly with AT&T Long Lines and is integrated into the nationwide telephone network. This system currently utilizes four COMSTAR satellites of Comsat General Corporation and, beginning in 1983, will utilize the Telstar satellites now being built for AT&T. This system provides long-distance voice communications services within the contiguous 48 states, between Hawaii and the mainland, and between Puerto Rico and the mainland. In addition to handling long distance telephone calls, the system also provides a number of specialized services including high-speed data and television transmission and video conferencing.

On December 4, 1980, GTE Satellite Corporation received authorization from the Federal Communications Commission to construct and operate an advanced communications satellite system which will be known as the GSTAR system. Authorization was granted to construct three satellites for operation in the 12 and 14-gigahertz frequency band and to launch two of them. Construction of the satellites began during the 3rd quarter of 1981 by RCA Astro Electronics. The system is designed primarily to provide customized digital transmission networks, that will enable customers from business and government to transmit voice, data, image and message information. The system, planned to be operational in 1984, will provide communications services to all 50 states.

International Telecommunications Satellite Organization (Intelsat). 490 L'Enfant Plaza, S.W., Washington 20024. (202) 488-2300. Santiago Astrain, dir gen; P. Godiniaux, France, chmn, bd of governors.

Intelsat is the 106 member-country organization that owns and operates the international satellite system which provides two-thirds of the worlds overseas telecommunications and nearly all overseas television.

RCA American Communications Inc. 400 College Rd., Princeton, N.J. 08540. (609) 734-4000. Dr. J.J. Tietjen, pres; Harold W. Rice, VP video/audio svcs; Guy Lewis & Rick Boyland, mgrs; Lou Donato, dir network relations; William Kopacka, mgr CATV svcs.

The RCA Satcom domestic satellite system offers data, voice, audio and video communications services to business, government and the electronic media. Seven Satcoms are in operation serving major radio networks, wire services, broadcast television networks, and cable television program distributors.

Satcom I-R carries the company's digital audio transmission service for radio networking and occasional TV. Satcom I and II carry voice and data traffic for commercial and government accounts, while Satcom V (Aurora) is owned by Alascom Inc., and operated under a joint agreement by RCA Americom to handle Alaska's long-distance intercity telephone traffic and the state's television service.

Satcom II-R will be used for expansion of voice and data services, and will take over much of the traffic now carried on Satcom I/II.

Each RCA Americom spacecraft carries 24 transponders. Satcom III-R and IV have TWTA amplifiers providing 5.5 and 8.5 watts of power, Satcoms V, I-R and II-R have solid state power amplifiers with 8.5 watts of power.

Satellite Television Corporation. 1301 Pennsylvania Ave., N.W., Washington 20004. (202) 626-3600. Richard S. Bodman, pres; Michael S. Albert, exec VP; Ron Castell, sr VP mktg; Richard Galkin, sr VP progmg; Edmund Bartlett, VP fin & treas; Judith Shannon, VP pub rel; Leo M. Keane, VP engrg; Warren Y. Zeger, VP bus dev; Jack Hannon, VP gen counsel; Ken Ash, VP mktg; Hartford Gunn, VP progmg.

STC has FCC authorization to construct a U.S. satellite-to-home pay-TV system. STC will launch a five-channel service to the Northeast beginning in 1984; it will expand the service to cover Eastern and Central Time Zones in 1986. Satellites will beam programing directly to the homes of subscribers equipped with 2 1/2 foot dish antennas.

ANIK A-III used primarily for cable TV distribution.

ANIK B-I used primarily for broadcast of CBC, CTV and TV Ontario programing.

United States Satellite Broadcasting Co. Inc. 3415 University Ave., St. Paul, Minn. 55114. (612) 642-4467. Stanley S. Hubbard, pres & CEO; Robert F. Fountain, VP & chief op off; Robert Fransen, VP; Dennis Brownlee, VP.

Holds construction permit for DBS satellite.

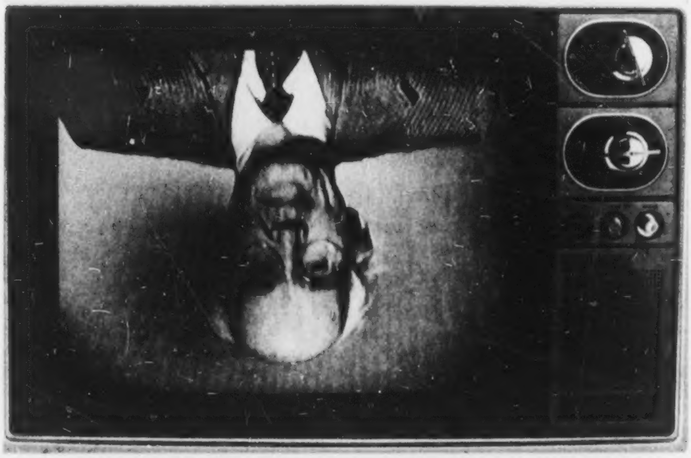
Video Satellite Systems Inc. 29201 Telegraph Rd., Southfield, Mich. 48034. (313) 358-4671. George Metcalfe, pres.

Holds construction permit for DBS satellite.

Western Union Broadcast Services. One Lake St., Upper Saddle River, N.J. 07458. (201) 825-5000. Robert Flannagan, chmn of bd & CEO; Philip Schneider, VP-govt intnatl & sat sys; Michael Caffarel, asst VP & gen mgr video svcs; John Livingstone, sr dir sat svsc & audio prog channels.

Western Union's 5 Westar satellites provide video, radio, voice and data communications services nationwide. The Westars' transponders are used for television and radio services that range from point-to-point occasional service to full time point-to-multipoint network distribution.

The Western Union satellite system is integrated with the company's 10,000-mile terrestrial microwave network and includes eight earth stations: a command earth station at Glenwood, N.J. and others near New York, Chicago, Atlanta, Dallas, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle.



"...and live on the scene with an exclusive report is..."

If your programming is important enough to call for a temporary satellite network or portable downlinks, you're probably too busy to make the necessary arrangements yourself. That's a fact some broadcasters have to learn the hard way. Others call SATELLEASE.

We cover all major markets. And then some. We use only the most reliable broadcast-quality equipment, such as transportable five-meter antennas and fully redundant electronics. And it's operated by people who are trained – by us – to treat your signal carefully enough to let your chief engineer get a good night's sleep.

Whether you need one downlink for one day or a network capable of beaming your live features to 20 markets between Anchorage and Albuquerque, we'll take care of all the details. One call, no headaches, great price.

Make us prove it. Call SATELLEASE today.

Radio and Television Audiences

Radio and Television were in more U.S. homes than ever before as 1984 approached.

Radio. The Radio Advertising Bureau estimated that 84.3 million U.S. homes, 99.0%, were radio-equipped as of Jan. 1, 1982.

Radio Sets. The number of working-order radio sets in the U.S. totaled 470,0 million in January 1982, according to estimates by the Radio Advertising Bureau. RAB estimated that 347.0 million of these were home and personal radio sets and 123.0 million were out-of-home receivers.

Television. A total of 83.8 million homes, or 98% of all U.S. homes (excluding Alaska and Hawaii) were TV equipped as of January 1, 1984, according to A.C. Nielsen Company.

Color TV. Homes equipped with color TV sets totaled 75.81 million, or 90% of all TV homes, as of Jan. 1, 1984, according to A.C. Nielsen Company estimates.

Viewing and Listening. The extent to which radio and television sets were used is indicated in the tables that follow. The television figures were furnished by the Nielsen company and its Nielsen Television Index (NTI). The radio data came from RAB and other sources as noted.

*Prior to 1971, data reflects factory sales by U.S. manufacturers plus those products imported directly by distributors or dealers for resale. All import statistics are based on average value as published by the U.S. Department of Commerce, which is F.O.B. and therefore excludes U.S. import duties, freight charged from the foreign country to the U.S. and insurance.
